Weather holds us up!

It appears to be such a simple thing to do, sail a 63ft Sunseeker from Poole to London in order to start the exclusive Thames packages we revealed in our last newsletter. Unfortunately the recent bad weather which has plagued us all has meant that Indulgence has been stuck on Stand by for the last 3 weeks and is currently due to arrive at her new home in St Katherines Dock on Wednesday 25th October.

The delay however has been a wonderfully productive one and the extra time has allowed us to develop a new association which we are now proud to announce. Woods River Cruises, possibly the oldest and certainly the finest Thames river operators, have teamed up with Indulgence and will be working with us to provide all of our onboard hospitality as well as skippers and crew.

We are delighted to be associated with Woods and are now even more confident that with partnerships such as this our quality of hospitality and exclusivity of our packages will be as high as they have always been at the start of this new venture for us.

Lights, Camera, ACTION! Indulgence in Hit TV Show

Last minute charters are never a problem but a phone call at 16:45 from a TV company requesting our Predator 63 for the following morning was a new record even for us. 'Faking It' has become one of Channel 4's most popular shows and when they decided to turn a complete novice into a confident racing skipper in just 4 weeks they needed a way to test her.

The solution was to hold a race in the Solent where the faker was put up against 3 other skippers whose experience was far greater than hers. The race required a platform from which the 3 judges could watch and attempt to spot the faker; enter Indulgence. Sadly she was not required to show her speed but with post race interviews being conducted in the Cockpit as well as weaving in and out of the fleet with cameras on the foredeck, she at least got to show her class!

As for the outcome, we have been sworn to secrecy so if you want to see if you can spot the faker the show airs every Wednesday at 21:00 on Channel 4
